Transportation and Infrastructure Task Force (ESF 1/ESF 3)

Accomplishments:

- The California Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) shut public access to its field offices across the state in response to the COVID-19 outbreak. Developing a plan for next steps.
- Some Caltrans employees are also requesting that Caltrans leadership revisit and narrow the number of employees considered essential to reduce exposure to COVID-19. Caltrans leadership is reviewing the situation.
 - Additionally, 13 Caltrans contractors have ceased operations over COVID-19 concerns, affecting delivery of 18 construction contracts.
- As a follow up to this week's Transportation and Critical Infrastructure Task Force call, CalSTA is working with CalOES on a tasker to the task force to assess the state of continuity planning in multimodal transportation.
- Earlier this week, Secretary Kim briefed the UCG that port workers in the maritime (water-side) sector are clearly defined, but freight at the ports also depends on land-side workers involved with goods that leave the ports and are brought to warehouses and then to transload centers. If these workers are not available, it could create bottlenecks in the supply chain.
- On March 26, 2020, Secretary Kim submitted a clarification of the definition of essential workers to include land-side port workers to Cal OES.
- Following up with the DMV on issues raised by the CDFA regarding livestock transport truck regulations. The usual process is for agricultural producers to register their livestock trucks in person, but with DMV offices closed, the issue is whether DMV will offer virtual registration for these vehicles.
- Caltrans Director Toks spoke with California Trucking Association on March 27, 2020 to assess pros and cons of increasing truck weight limitations for the delivery of emergency supplies.
